An enormously successful reel of motion pictures has been secured by Munger McNulty for his attraction today, and is an athletic subject of the first class. It is entitled How Championships Are Won and Lost, depicted by the master boxer, James J Corbett. This is a puglistic picture that has eliminated from it all of the coarseness that would offend anyone, and with the assistance of Miss Florence Turner, the Vitagraph Girl, Mr. Corbett produces a series of Corbett produces a series of ints that are not only highly eleing and instructive, but equally clusting to both ladies and gentlein. Oliver Freeman was known by reputation to practically all the people in this city who have resided here twenty-five years. He fived in a little house on the Derby Neck road which has stood for over a hundred years, and which has been the center of much curiosity to the people of this section.

The office was marely a "make believe" The office was merely a "make believe" office so far as any executive authority over the herroes was concerned, but it was a real office in the minds of the negroes and it is said that on certain occasions the "governor" was obeyed implicitly. It existed in siavery times and seems to have been the outgrowth of the desires of the negroes to imitate their white masters, many of the elaves accompanying their masters to the inauguration of the governor of Connecticut, and getting the suggestion of a governor for themselves from this inauguration.

Oliver Freeman's grandfather, Quash, a siave who was stolen from Africa and who was owned by Agar Tomlinson, of Derby, was also one of the governors of the negroes. In 1800 he was given his freedom by the will of his master, and took the name of Freeman, being known as Quash Freeman, but best known as Governor Quash. Mr. Tomlinson gave Quash and his wife, beside their freedom, a house, a little tract of land, a yoke of oxen, a cow and farming implements.

Eugene Sweet, Sunnyside Avenue, Norwich, Conn., says: "It was at least twelve years ago that I first learned of the value of Doan's Kidney Pills. At that time I was in great need of a kidney remedy. For eight weeks I was confined to my bed on account of lumbago and was almost helpless, having to be turned over and being unable to move at all without assistance. My suffering was about all nny person could endure. Sharp pains across my loins and kidneys caused misery of the worst kind. In addition to this I was annoyed by irregular passages of the kidney secretions. I consulted three of the best physicians in Providence, R. I., but they failed to make the slightest impravement. It was finally my good fortune to read of Doan's Kidney Pills and I was so much impressed with Eugene Sweet, Sunnyside Avenue fortune to read of Doan's Kidney Phis and I was so much impressed with what was said in their favor that I began their use. Would Bonaparte or Caesar ever have achieved renown

If each had been a shoe clerk in some ilttle country town?

Would Washington be honored by his countrymen today

If George the Fourth had acted in a wise and decent way?

The waiter at your table might, if sine gled out by fate
To be just where he was needed, become supremely great;
The girl who guides your collar through the ironing machine Might in other circumstances have come a stately queen.

So let us not be jesting at the mem who grubs unknown.

He might have been a Bismarck had he loitered around a throne;

Your barber might have dezaited as an Emperor of France.

Gr become another Cromwell if he'd only had the chance.

MAGNIFICION'S SILMINGS. There's only one great silence on this whirling earth of ours.

The wind will mean and whisper 'mid the branches of the flow'rs.

The ripples in the brooklet and the wayes upon the sea Keep up a constant murmer, e'en though centuries may flee.

The only real silence that the keenest search can find is the stillness of a statesman who has something in his mind.

The bee maintains a gentle buss while busy all the day:
The insects hum in harmony, at work as well as a play.
The engine keeps on puffing as it pulls the laden train.
And quietude complete is something that we seek in vain.
Unless we seek it far from all the bustle and the grind
In the stillness of the statesmun who has something on his mind.
